

Let the Work Go On.
Now that the Legislature is to start the work of impeachment, let them carry it on. Let not the business begin and end with Judge Vernon. How many connected with the present regime might be brought up for "high crimes and misdemeanors?"

The Memory of General Lee.
As our readers have observed, the generous sentiments of Senator McCreery, of Kentucky, respecting the character and worth of the late General Lee, are not shared by the radical partisans in the United States Senate. Messrs. Edmunds, and Sumner, and Morton, and Nye, and Scott, and other lesser lights, were bitter and denunciatory. This is what one may expect of men whose narrow minds give up to PARTY what was meant for MANKIND. Senator Sumner was willing to leave the memory of Lee to the hand of history. We accept the suggestion. We are willing to abide by the verdict of posterity. Of this we feel assured, that the name of Lee will be honored and respected long after the memory of Sumner, and Morton and company shall have passed away.

It is not in the power of the partizan to dishonor the name of the great Virginian. Even now, amid the heated passions of the hour, we turn with confidence from the prejudiced utterances of the radical exponents of the North, to the better judgment of the large portion of that section who do not recognize the Sumners and the Mortons as their representatives. The true, calm, unprejudiced men of the whole country must recognize in General Lee, a character that honored humanity. If Lee was "a traitor," then did he make treason honorable, and adorn it with a peculiar lustre.

We have this to add: The charge against General Lee is that he committed treason because he sided with his native State against the General Government. In answer, we have to remark, that since the establishment of this Government, good men have differed in opinion as to the character of the relationship existing between the States and the General Government. In deciding that his allegiance was primarily due to Virginia, General Lee simply signified his acquiescence in the States Right theory of our Government. This was an unsettled question. General Lee's decision made him no traitor, and they who call him traitor, are themselves traitors to truth, justice and magnanimity, and deadly enemies to that generous sentiment which is necessary to make this a Union in fact, and not in name alone. The South and the manhood of the South have been violently assailed in the United States Senate, and they who should be there to reply to her defamers are politically ostracised. But this will not be so always. And the time will soon be when, in the Senate chamber of this country, the genuine representatives of this section will be there to strike hands with a McCreery, and to rebuke the paltry reasoning of a Sawyer and the petty utterances of a Sumner. Thus do we replace the flowers of honor and affection that partisan hands seek to tear from the fresh grave of Lee, and thus speaking for the South and generous men North, do we re-affirm his claims to genuine honor.

The Laurens Prisoners.
When men in authority violate the laws, or countenance their violation, how can it be expected that the people will respect the laws, if they believe they can protect themselves by their own strong arms? When high officials set the example of taking the law into their own hands, it is an invitation to the whole community to do likewise. If persons charged with crime cannot avail themselves of the process of the Courts to have a hearing on an application for bail, is it to be expected that they will submit to arrest? The action of the authorities in relation to the prisoners lately arrested in Laurens is a proclamation that the most sacred rights of the citizen may be disregarded with impunity. If officials can violate the laws with impunity, why cannot the citizen? Is this not legitimate reasoning? We deprecate violence—and pray that it may cease everywhere in the land. Hence, we condemn the course that has been taken in relation to the Laurens prisoners, which seems to be approved by the powers that be. If not thus approved, why has not something been done to arrest the course of proceedings towards them? Is there not sufficient courage and energy in the government of the State to sustain the laws? Is the State prepared to pass into the hands of a mob? Is lawlessness to continue, by the sanction of those who are charged with the protection and enforcement of the laws? If so, then, indeed, have we fallen upon evil times. Now, the point is this: If those who have the control of the State—in other words, the Government—desire peace and good order in the State, they must set the example. They should recall to mind the fate of Diomedes, who fed his favorite steeds on human flesh, and afterwards fell a victim to their unnatural appetite. HAMDEN.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS.
THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1870.
SENATE.
The Senate met at 12 m.
Mr. Whittemore rose to a question of privilege, and made some lengthy remarks on an item in the Columbia correspondence of the Charleston News.
A concurrent resolution, to take a recess from December 22, 1870, to January 5, 1871, was adopted.
A House bill to extend the time for officers to qualify was read its first time.

The Retrenchment Committee reported on a House resolution to investigate the matter of the constabulary. Adopted.
The following bills were introduced: To amend an Act authorizing the sale of the Columbia Canal, so as to allow a dam to be built below Geiger's Mill, where widening and deepening may commence; to provide for the publication of the Acts of the General Assembly by the Clerks of both houses.
A bill to amend an Act to establish a system of free schools was recommitted to the Committee on Education.

Messrs. Swails, Whittemore and Smalls were appointed as the committee to investigate the affairs of the constabulary.
Mr. Whittemore introduced the following resolution, that all bills reported by the Committee on Engrossed Bills be considered the same day as reported. Laid over under the rules.
A report of the Sergeant-at-Arms was read in reference to the disposition made of the old carpets, &c., in the Senate chamber.

The following reports were adopted: Of the Committee on Privileges and Elections on the protest of certain citizens of Marlboro, against the right of J. H. Maxwell to a seat in the Senate; of same committee, relative to the case of R. J. Donaldson against G. W. Duvall, for a seat in the Senate; of same committee on the case of P. B. Tompkins against F. A. Clinton for a seat in the Senate.
The Senate then adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.
The House met 12 m.
The Sergeant-at-Arms reported that he had delivered Judge Vernon a communication from the clerk, informing him of his impeachment.

Mr. Crews offered a resolution that the Speaker be instructed to order Judge Vernon to appear forthwith at the bar of the House, and show cause why he should not be attached for a contempt, in performing the functions of a Judge after the receipt of the communication informing him of his impeachment.
Mr. R. M. Smith objected, on the ground that as Judge Vernon is to be tried before the Senate, he is subject to its jurisdiction, and is not at liberty to obey the summons of the Speaker.

Messrs. Wilkes, Crittenden and Sellers opposed it, on the ground that Judge Vernon did not commit such a contempt as the House could punish, under the Constitution.
Mr. Crews said that he liked Judge Vernon as a man, but despised him as a Judge, and wanted his head entirely cut off. "If Judge Vernon is brought here, two thirds of the members will say that he is drunk."

Messrs. J. A. Davis and Bosemon expressed the intention to vote against the resolution, because they conscientiously believed that they should do so, and thought they had a right to vote as they thought best.

Mr. Hurley, who opposed the resolution, sent to the Chair a volume, from which he requested that the clerk might read certain sections, which was done. When the clerk had finished reading, Mr. Whipper obtained possession of the book, and refused to deliver it to Mr. Hurley, and the latter was compelled to discontinue his remarks.

After considerable debate by Messrs. Moses, Thompson, Whipper, Duncan and others, the resolution was adopted.

Mr. Byns offered a resolution, that the committee appointed to inform the Senate of the impeachment of Judge Vernon be instructed to prepare articles of impeachment and conduct said impeachment. Adopted.

The Committee on Military reported favorably on a bill to incorporate the Moses Guards. The bill was laid over for a second reading. Also, favorably on a bill to repeal the "Act to establish a State police." Laid over for a second reading. Also, favorably on a bill to incorporate the Nashotte Charitable Association. Also, favorably on a bill to incorporate the Hedges Light Guards. Laid over for a second reading.

The Committee on the Judiciary reported unfavorably on a bill to prevent the breach of peace of the Sabbath. The bill was laid over for a second reading. Also, unfavorably on a bill to regulate the pay of jurors. Laid over for a second reading. Also, favorably on a bill to provide for the administration of derelict estates. Laid over for a second reading. Also, favorably on a bill to cede the jurisdiction of the State to certain lands to the United States. Laid over for a second reading.

The Committee on Ways and Means reported favorably on a joint resolution, authorizing the State Auditor and County Commissioners to levy certain taxes, recommending certain amendments. Read the second time.

The House then adjourned.
The Mobile Register, of Saturday, the 10th instant, announces the death in that city, on the previous day, of Mr. Richard S. Giles, in the fifty-seventh year of his age. Mr. Giles was a printer by profession, and a native of Charleston, from whence he removed to Mobile, about thirty-five years ago.

A MOST UNRIGHTEOUS DEED.—On last Thursday night, near Shiloh, a few miles beyond Liberty Hill, in our District, a negro man, named Bob Dorn, was shot and killed in his bed. His body was pierced with seven balls and buck-shot, and seven more were lodged in different parts of the bedstead. So far as we can learn, the affair is up to this time wrapped in complete mystery. The verdict of the jury of inquest was that the deceased came to his death at the hands of some person or persons unknown. If we are correctly informed, black persons are more strongly suspected than white, of having committed this foul murder. Such deeds, under any circumstances whatsoever, are totally barbarous, unjustifiable, and calculated to bring very serious trouble upon our people at large. In the name of law, order, religion, humanity, honor, decency, let such things no longer happen among us. [Edgefield Advertiser.]

DEATH OF MRS. WHITEFIELD BROOKS.—Mrs. Mary P. Brooks, widow of the late Col. Whitfield Brooks, mother of the late Hon. Preston S. Brooks, and sister of Chancellor Carroll—all of them men known, loved and honored in South Carolina—departed this life, at her residence near Ninety-Six, on Wednesday last, aged seventy.—[Edgefield Advertiser.]

The gin house of Mrs. Samuel Rainey, residing about eight miles from Chester, on the York road, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday night, 13th instant. The gin house and contents were a total loss. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.—[Chester Reporter.]

INCENDIARISM.—The gin house of Dr. Walter Brice, near Youngsville, in this County, was burned on Monday night last, 12th inst., together with six bales of cotton and several hundred pounds of fodder. It was the work of the incendiary.—[Winnboro News.]

Advices from South America, by way of Lisbon, indicate the continued successes of the rebels in the Argentine Confederation. Montevideo was besieged by them, and the authorities of Buenos Ayres were negotiating with their leader, General Jordan.

TROCHU AND THE POPE.—It is said that a letter has been received by the Pope, from General Trochu, which was sent from Paris by balloon, and afterwards forwarded by courier. In this epistle, the General, it is said, expresses his sympathy for the Holy Father in the misfortunes which have fallen upon him, and laments that the present condition of France prevents her coming to his assistance; but he is persuaded that this disability will soon cease. As for himself, he had determined to seek retirement as soon as he accomplished his mission at Paris, but the dethronement of the Holy Father, by the Italian annexation, has led him to abandon this resolution, and he will make it his next duty to restore the Pope to his triple crown.

Consul Perry, at Panama, recently received a call from an Indian chief, who informed him of the existence of a hitherto unknown opening through the mountains, which can be available for a ship canal. General Grant has found one defender in the person of "An American Woman," who writes to the New York Sun, complimenting him upon having taken care of his poor relations. She truly says:

"Now, I honor President Grant for not being ashamed of his poor relations. All wealthy men have poor relations, more or less, and seven-eighths of them would not allow a poor relation to enter their door—they would be disgraced by the visit!"
This would all be very well did General Grant have any poor relations. It might have been the case once, but now they are all rich; yet his generosity still continues at the rate of nearly half a million yearly.
